REFERENCE: ADPC Memorandum of 12 December
Regarding Project EIGHT

1. I agree wholly with Mr. Wisner's view that the stimulus to be provided to the Foreign Office by passing on the news of the State Department's approval of the revised version of EIGHT outweighs the value of any information as to British intentions to be gained by delaying passing them this word. The only light I can throw on this matter is [] remark to me that he hoped State Department and Foreign Office would consult on this matter before either made its decision. I interpret this to mean, however, that MI-6 was worried over the possibility of both Foreign Office and State Department disapproval and felt that consultation between them might avoid this outcome.

COP concurs in passage of info to British so soon as reaction obtained from NME.
